Moderation: Stefanie Ehmsen, Co-Director of RLS–NYC

FREEDOM '63 REMIXED

On August 16, RLS–NYC organized “Freedom ’63 Remixed” in Harlem to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the “March on Washington for Jobs and Freedom.” 400 people, including more than a dozen marchers from 1963, came to hear a night of conversation featuring Dick Gregory, Hari Kondabolu, Gwendolyn Zoharah Simmons, Jeanne Theoharis, Boots Riley, and Dorothy Zellner.

HOW I FOUND MY BERLIN IN JEWISH MANHATTAN

On August 28, RLS–NYC co-presented together with the Leo Baeck Institute a talk with Irene Runge. Runge, born the daughter of German-Jewish émigrés in Manhattan in 1942, read from her book, told stories about Jewish life in East Germany, and related anecdotes from her visits in New York and about contemporary Jewish culture and community in Berlin.

TEACH RADICAL SERIES

Our “Teach Radical Series: Alternative Education in Practice” recently concluded with "Part 5: Using Media to Teach for Change," featuring Global Action Project and Sandy Storyline. We want to thank our participants: Steve Williams, Green Worker Cooperatives, New York Collective of Radical Educators, Coalition for Public Education, Brecht Forum, Maysles

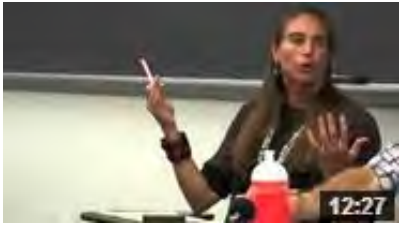

Documentary Center, Center for Popular Economics, and the Brooklyn Institute for Social Research; as well as the hundreds of people who came to our events.

FIGHTING TUITION, FIGHTING DEBT

Jérémie Bédard-Wien, Jackie Sewell, & Astra Taylor talk about rising tuition, student debt, and the need to fight for free higher education.

UNIONS GO GREEN

Tadzio Müller, Lara Skinner, Emmaia Gelman, & Stefanie Ehmsen debate the urgent need for energy democracy in the face of climate change.

FIGHTING RACISM IN A POST-RACIAL WORLD

Tahir Della, Steve Williams, & Kazembe Balagun discuss similarities and differences between issues of race in Germany and the U.S., as well as the impact of Obama and the fight against racism in a "post-racial world."
