FACING THE DANGERS OF A 21st CENTURY GREAT POWER WAR
Conference on the Centenary of World War I
Saturday, May 3; 9:00am - 5:30pm

Assembly Hall, Judson Memorial Church
229 Thompson St., New York City
(South of Washington Square Park)

This conference will provide an opportunity for reflection and discussion on the world wars of the last century and about the risks of a great power war today. It will be held alongside the 2014 preparatory committee meetings for the 2015 Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty Review conference at the United Nations. We hope to spark a discussion and increase awareness about the dangers posed by nuclear weapons in the context of new arms races between the world’s leading powers.

The conference will bring together activists and academics with expertise in the emerging threats in key regions: from wars, resource conflicts, and profound ongoing political realignments in the Middle East to growing tensions in the Western Pacific over territory and resources, as well as the United States’ strategic “pivot” to Asia. The presenters will discuss the risks of great power wars, the implication of those dangers for peace and disarmament efforts, and the kinds of movements we will need to build a path to a more peaceful world.

THERE IS NO CHARGE FOR THE CONFERENCE.
Register by emailing Jennifer Sherys-Rivet at JSherysr@afsc.org.
For more information, call 617-661-6130.

An inexpensive lunch will be available on site. We would appreciate pre-registrations indicating whether you would like to purchase lunch and if you would prefer a vegetarian meal.